Dear Margene, My time with you was such a gift. You lived an honest life. You taught me patience and the joy found in simple pleasures. I miss taking you to listen to music and on picnics, listening to Lawrence Welk and helping you find your special things to sleep with. I think of you often and fondly. When you said, "You be here? Good!" it made me feel so special. I loved it when you would ask, "How will YOU have a good day?" or "You ok?" and reach out and touch me. I carry you close to my heart, dear Margene. I miss you so. Love, "Joan, Joan, Joan, Joan"

I was given the chance to know Margene for many, many years! My favorite memory has to be a time where Margene had been a little well, challenging all day. However, at the end of this particular day she put her arm around my shoulder (out of nowhere) and just simply called me "Honey". She could so sweet! I know that she is up in heaven where they are endless buttons, chocolate, pancakes, and all of her favorite stuffed animals! :) RIP MARGENE :)
